

Vincent Zito

Phlebotomy Technician Laboratory

- Years at Hoag: 1
- Pursuing a bachelor's in kinesiology with an emphasis on gerontology
- Scholarship will allow him to put all his effort into his academics and become the most successful student possible
- Goal is to be a physician assistant
- Made the decision to do whatever it took to be successful in life
- At the age of 13, he signed up with the Huntington Beach Police Department Explorer Program, where he learned how to be a leader and communicate with people
- Uncle is a urologist, and his grandmother was a nurse. Mother went to college to take prerequisites for a nursing degree but ultimately decided to stay with her own esthetician business

Dear Kingston Technology:

Words cannot describe how grateful I am to have been selected for the Kingston Technology–Hoag Classic Scholarship. I appreciate that my hard work and dedication to my future career is noticed. If there was a word that had the magnitude of ten thousand “thank-you’s,” I would be saying it over and over again. This scholarship will allow me to put all of my effort into my academics and become the most successful student possible.

Getting into physician assistant school has been a longtime dream of mine that I can now see coming up over the horizon. The day that I stepped into Hoag Hospital to start my first day of work, I knew that this was where my heart was meant to be. Being able to achieve my dream of becoming a PA and work at Hoag Hospital is becoming an exciting reality. There is nothing more in this world that I would want than to work at the place I call my second home.

My gratitude to Kingston Technology is of the highest caliber. Being selected to receive a scholarship like this allows me to be the student that Hoag Hospital deserves. I know that one day, I will step foot into Hoag Hospital as a physician assistant, and I will be able to look back and thank Kingston Technology for helping me get there.

Sincerely,
Vincent Zito

